Mrs. Harold Gaylord Died at Montclair, N. J.—Burial to Be Here.

A telegram was received here Wednesday by the family of G. A. Chedel, announcing the death of Mrs. Harold Gaylord, which occurred at her home at Montclair, N. J., on Tuesday night. No particulars are given, but it is supposed that she died at the birth of a child, who also did not live. Mrs. Chedel has been with her daughter for several weeks, and her sister, Mrs. Jessie Chedel Flint, came from there last Thursday, leaving her comfortable. The burial will be held here. Deceased was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Chedel, who was married to Harold Gaylord a couple of years ago and went to Montclair to live, but up to that time she had lived in town almost constantly since she was quite young. Mrs. Gaylord attended school here, where she found many friends; was graduated from the high school and afterwards taught a year before her marriage. Mrs. Gaylord was active in Bethany church, of which she was a member, and was also a member of Bethany chapter, O. E. S. Deceased was the youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Chedel and is survived by her husband, her parents, one sister, Mrs. Lewis Flint, and two brothers, Dr. Charles Chedel, until recently in camp near Fitchburg, but later somewhere in France, and Robert Chedel of this place. The sad news strikes a heavy blow to her family here, and to her large circle of friends, who had known her so long.

There was a quiet wedding on Saturday afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Rye, who live on the Bowditch farm, a little out of town, when their daughter, Ethel Pearl Rye, was married to Hugh Leland Seaver, Rev. Fraser Metzger performing the ceremony. The immediate relatives of the contracting parties witnessed the ceremony, which was followed by light refreshments, and the couple left at once for Stowe and other points north of here. Mr. Seaver has been one of the rural carriers of the mail here for several years, coming here from Williamstown, and during his stay has proved himself efficient and prosperous. He has resigned his position and enlisted in the service and expects to be called at an early date. Mrs. Seaver attended school here, and in the last year has been employed in the office of the Randolph telephone exchange. The good wishes of a large circle of friends will follow the couple in their new relation.

The adjourned village meeting was held on Tuesday night with a good attendance. The meeting was held for the purpose of receiving the report of the committee appointed for the purpose of investigating a proposed fire alarm, which the corporation was expecting to purchase. The committee was present and gave their report, but no action was taken, and the subject was laid on the table. L. B. Johnson introduced a resolution in regard to the traffic laws, and after much discussion the traffic law was voted down. This was the result of the recent action of the police in arresting several who did not regard the same, and a general resignation of the force was the result. A meeting to elect a prudential committee in the place of Miss Mary DuBois, who resigned, resulted in the election of L. S. Brigham to fill the vacancy.

Mrs. Frank Harrington of Haverhill, Mass., and her little child are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. N. C. Greene this week. E. L. Bass came from Bethel Wednesday with his sister, Mrs. Della Tison, and her daughter, Miss Mary Tison, for a short stay with Mrs. C. R. Ratt. There will be a date in agricultural hall, Randolph Center, on Friday evening, Aug. 2, for the benefit of the Red Cross. The Sault-Angell orchestra of Randolph will furnish the music. Light refreshments will be on sale.

FIX 15-CENT MILK PRICE.

New England Regional Milk Commission Authorizes One-Half Cent Increase. Boston, Aug. 1.—The price of milk to the consumer in Greater Boston for August and September will be 15 cents a quart and 8½ cents a pint. This price was set by the New England regional milk commission yesterday. The present figures are 14½ cents a quart and eight cents a pint. The reason for the advance is given as "owing to the continued high prices of feed and the scarcity of and increase in wages for labor." Of the half-cent increase the distributors get three-eighths of a cent and the producers one-eighth. Under the present figures the producers have been receiving 8½ cents and the distributors six cents.

UNITED STATES FORCES
IN SIX COUNTRIES

They Are Carrying on Their Grim Work on Strangely Alien Soil—France, Germany, Russia, Austria, Italy and Belgium.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 1.—The war map with its trench lines straggling athwart international boundaries shows American fighting men holding their footing on strangely alien soils. As it now stands, army units of the United States are at their grim work in six countries, France, Germany, Russia, Austria, Italy and Belgium.

The swelling volume of their movement overseas has been so necessary a response to the emergency of the nation's responsibility, so thoroughly implied by the original war declaration, and so entirely natural a picture to a people prepared by three years' observation of world war, that it may take a historian's perspective to visualize completely the departure from traditions and the smashing of precedents that the movement involved.

Checking the six, American artillery has been reported on the French line opposite Mulhausen, several miles inside the border of the German empire. In Austria, the olive drab uniform supports Italian soldiers which swing round the toe of Lake Garda, and American fliers have maneuvered over the Venetian lowlands where the Austrian drive was forced back this spring. In Belgium, they have gone over the top with Australians and in France their forces in action now can be counted by army corps. In Russia, at Vladivostok and now on the frozen reaches of the Murman coast, they are putting disciplined force behind the manifold manifestations of national purpose. Likewise, in England, Scotland and Ireland, they fill up the school camps and prepare themselves for action.

These men, drafted nearly all, are the agents in the far-flung journeyings of a nation whose military history has shown more than one instance in which volunteers, ordered across a boundary, have sat down, private and officer alike, to debate the constitutionality of a war-like expedition to foreign soil, and still more instances where militia organizations have successfully opposed national attempts to send them beyond their own state lines.

Yet today, under the urge of the war resolution, which directed the administration "to exert all of its power and employ all of its resources to carry on war against the imperial German government and to bring the conflict to a successful conclusion," drafted men and volunteers have not raised a single protest of serious import.

It was not until January of the present year that the supreme court formally construed the constitution to allow any sort of war operation the nation desired to carry on. The court said of contentions opposing that view that they "were too frivolous for notice."

Yet long before the decision the first drafted American had fallen in battle overseas and legions more had streamed after him to every quarter, almost, of the Eurasian continent.

Thus the historian has been given a large and interesting mile-post to build in the future, but for the average American, the news of the day shows that this interest is purely abstract. It having been definitely decided, upon due and formal consideration, that a complete defeat of Germany was necessary to democracy in the world, the nation has not even remembered precedents of history or traditions of the past.

Apparently, the men least inclined to consider that have been the soldiers who have gone bravely but with good cheer into the valley of the shadow of death, and there are making good the purpose.

SUGAR ECONOMY.

United States' Consumption in 1917 Showed Increase of Eight Per Cent.

The Corn Exchange, published by the Corn Exchange bank, Philadelphia, says: The 1917-18 world's crop of sugar is estimated at 16,522,000 tons, which about equals the crops for the two preceding years, but is 11 per cent less than the crop of 1914-15.

In 1917 the consumption of sugar in this country was 3,964,000 tons and the supply, including that from Cuba and United States possessions, amounted to over 5,000,000 tons.

So with this season's supply about normal, we shall have enough for ourselves with a substantial amount to share for our allies.

Notwithstanding the war argument in favor of food economy, sugar consumption in the United States in 1917 was the largest ever recorded, showing an increase of eight per cent over the preceding year, and the per capita consumption 84.35, was the largest on record, with one exception.

By agreement with the various refiners the total molasses have been apportioned among the different refiners by an American refiners committee and refiners have agreed to work on a margin of 81.30 per 100 pounds. This compares with the differential between raws and refined of $1.435 in 1917 and $0.772 in 1913. Even with the apparent liberal margin, it is said that refiners are not making much money on account of the increasing labor cost and the higher cost of supplies, and the fact that they have not been able to run to capacity.

On Jan. 7, 1918, the new price of raws became effective and the price of granulated was changed by all cane refiners to $7.45. This price has been in effect since then and is not likely to be changed unless the refining margin should be increased.

France cut her consumption down to slightly over one per capita monthly. England consumes only two pounds a month per capita, while the United States has been averaging at the rate of 7½ pounds a month per capita.

So it would appear that, while there is no stringency in the supply available for this country, it ill behooves us to be so liberal in the use of a commodity that has to be so urgently economized by those peoples with whom we are engaged in fighting a common enemy.

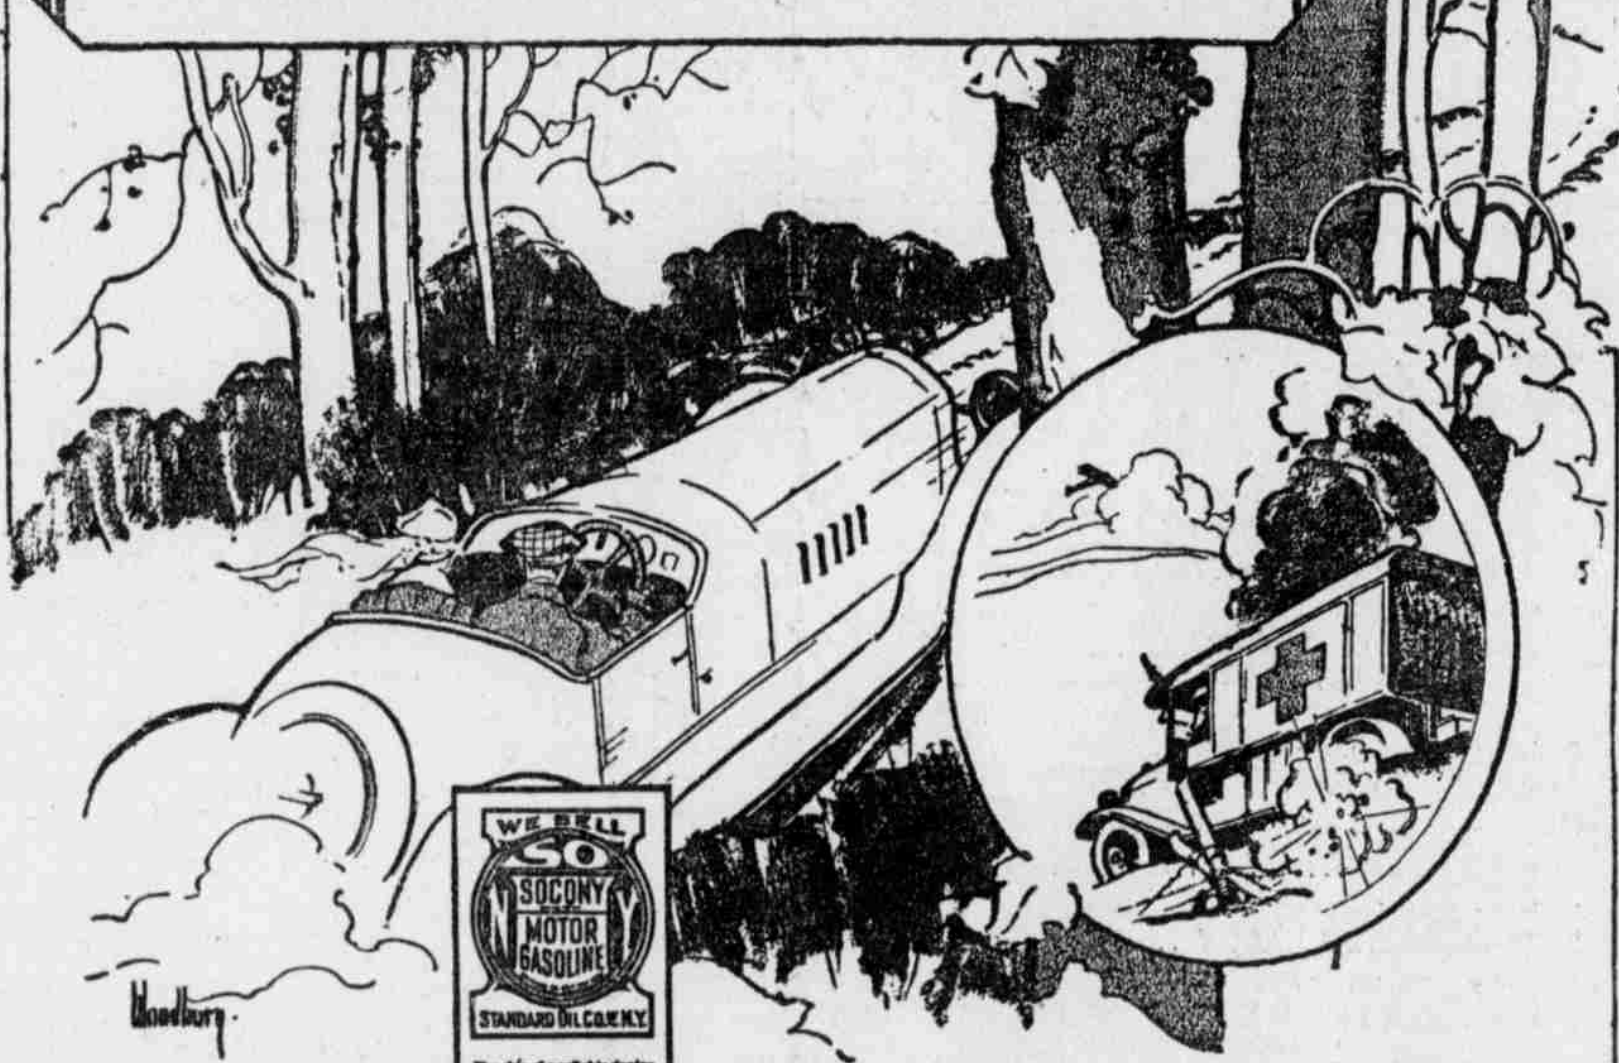

Save Fuel Wisely

Saving fuel is working hand in hand with the Government these days. And one way to save wisely and well is to use SO-CO-NY—the quality gasoline. It means minimum consumption and maximum power.

Inferior, low-grade mixtures mean waste in the form of increased consumption, lost power and excessive carbon deposits. There's power in every drop of SO-CO-NY. It's clean, quick starting; reliable; obtainable everywhere.

Look for the Red, White and Blue SO-CO-NY Sign. It's the wise way to save fuel.
